

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Slip ring apparatus that may be implemented to enable low profile rotating systems for a variety of different applications, such as articulated and non-articulated device applications. The assembly of the slip ring apparatus may be integrated into a printed circuit board ("PCB") with feedback circuitry, and the number of signals crossing the slip ring
5 rotational boundary may be minimized using serial electronics.